CATTLE PRICES EASIER.

Large Reports at Brighton Market—Heavy Beef Stock Scarce.

Brighton, Nov. 8.—Brighton cattle market quotations were generally easier yesterday morning, and some kinds of stock were lower, especially hogs and heavy beef stock.

Heavy beef cattle were scarce for fancy, and shippers found it difficult to get over 7 1/2c for anything offering. Good cattle sold at 6 1/2@7c and light cattle at 6@6 1/2c.

Heavy beef cattle held up fairly well, though sales of the best lots were made at a fraction under 6 cents; tops went at 5 1/2@5 3/4c and upward. Ordinary cows were easy at 3 1/2@4c, with good cows at 4@4 1/2c and canners at 3@3 1/2c.

One fancy bull sold at 6 1/2c, but this was an extreme, the best offerings generally selling at 5 1/2@5 3/4c, with bologna bulls at 4@4 1/2c.

Calves were a little easier, but some fancy stock in small lots brought as high as 11@11 1/2c. Bunch lots of good stock sold at 9@10c, with fair lots at 8@9c, and grassers and drinkers at 5@7c.

Hogs dropped off another one-fourth cent, the best lots selling at 6@6 1/2c, with a few fancy a fraction higher. Rough lots sold at 5@5 1/2c.

There was a slightly easier market for sheep and lambs, though some fancy lambs were still quotable at 9@10c. The bulk of the sales were made at 8@9c for lambs and 5@7c for sheep. Arrivals were heavier than for a long time.

Offerings of milk cows were moderate, though later arrivals are expected to fill the barns. Fancy milkers are quotable at $80@82, and occasionally more. Good cows are quotable at $70@75 and ordinary milkers at $40@50.

VERMONT FOOTBALL ARQUES INTEREST

Three-Cornered Intercollegiate Contest in Vermont is Rising to Considerable Importance.

The first game of the state series for the intercollegiate football championship of Vermont, which resulted in Middlebury's defeat of Norwich by the score of 20 to 7 at Middlebury, Saturday, was only so so as a football game, but worth a great deal in the matter of arousing general interest in college football in Vermont and in the cordial, enthusiastic and sportsmanlike spirit displayed by the student body and partisans of both colleges, says the Burlington Free Press. There are probably few states in the union where baseball is a more popular or a more thoroughly understood game than in Vermont, and there is no good reason, why, if the colleges desire to make it so, that football cannot become as well understood or as widely popular. A hard fought football game, especially where both teams use the more open style of play, is an even better contest from a spectator's point of view than a baseball game, and there is something dinging every minute. The great crowd which attended Saturday's game at Porter field was of course made up for the most part of the students and alumni of the two colleges, but there was also a goodly number of the general public present, who took a keen interest in the game.

The 150 Norwich cadets, who came down to Middlebury from Northfield on a special train, accompanied by their band, marched to the field in a body and were assigned to seats in the east stands. The Middlebury college students also had their band and if there was a student in the college, who wasn't present at the game, it must have been because he was seriously ill. President Thomas of Middlebury greeted Colonel Ira L. Reeves, president of Norwich as soon as the latter arrived at the field, and both executives agreed that cordial as their relations had always been, they differed decidedly in their wishes regarding the outcome of the game. Both sides kept up a continuous rapid fire cheering throughout the contest, so loud in fact, that many times the quarter-backs of both teams had considerable difficulty in making their signals heard.

The result of the game is now ancient history and the only possible object in reviewing it would be to consider it in connection with the game which both colleges play with the University of Vermont eleven on November 11 and 18. The Middlebury line played the cadet forwards and the backs ran hard and low, but for all that their work was not exactly impressive and it was the consensus of opinion that they must improve before next Saturday if they beat New Hampshire State college's gridironers and also when they face the Green and Gold team at Centennial field on November 18. Norwich was unfortunate in having her star quarterback, Osgood, laid out on the first play of the game, although his successor, the dusky Martin, did good work. Norwich can and undoubtedly will, play better football next Saturday, against the University of Vermont team, than she did against Middlebury.

Norwich received the ball on the first kickoff and ran it well into Middlebury's territory before being held for downs, and this, despite the fact that the big Middlebury forwards were ripping the cadets like wild apart, and that the Norwich backs failed again and again to take out their man when forming interference, the big fullback Boewe being lamentably weak in this respect. Once Middlebury had obtained possession of the ball, her backs smashed through the center of the Norwich line, where there was a pronounced weakness to the 20 yard line, where the brilliant Bower unhooked a beautiful forward pass to Polard, who made the first touchdown. The play was made on a split formation, which should never have been used, the cadets and was repeated successfully immediately after a previous attempt had failed. Norwich shifted to meet the play in a somewhat mystified manner, although when it was tried later in the game they disposed of it promptly.

The cadet supporters were soon jubilant when McDonald, the speedy right half back ran back a punt fifty yards for a touchdown, but their joy was turned to gloom in the second quarter when Middlebury recovered a fumbled pass and carried the ball over by line plunges in which Lynch, the big fullback played a prominent part.

Norwich fought hard in the second half in which McDonald made another long run, passing all but the last one of the Middlebury players between himself and the goal line. Norwich hammered out two first downs in succession, had the ball on their opponents' 25 yard line and appeared to be headed straight for a touchdown, when a back fumbled, and although he recovered the ball, the team could not seem to get started again and lost the ball on downs. This was the nearest that the cadets came to scoring during the remainder of the game. The players evidently had considerable trouble in hearing Martin's signals and the play was slowed up a good deal on that account.

The punting on both sides was mediocre and on the last play of the game Bower caught a short punt on the Norwich 35 yard line and dashed down the sidelines for the final touchdown. The Middlebury quarterback received splendid interference on this run and it did not appear as if a cadet player was left on his feet anywhere in that vicinity, nor that any of them approached the runner closely enough to even attempt to tackle him.

The work of the officials in this game was extremely poor and evoked unfavorable comment from spectators on both sides. There were frequent violations of the officials' rule and there was also considerable holding in the line, with at least one instance when a back was stopped by having a fist rammed violently into his face, but all except a few cases of flagrant offense, escaped penalizing. Norwich appeared to be the principal sufferer from the laxity or incompetency of the officials.

Should the Norwich university team defeat Vermont when these two eleven meet next Saturday and should Vermont defeat Middlebury on the following Saturday, the state series would result in a three cornered tie. It seems more probable, however, in view of the showing of the teams to date, that Vermont will defeat the cadets and that the big battle will be between Middlebury and Vermont at Burlington on November 18. It will be easier to tell, however, after next Saturday, when the merits of the Vermont and Middlebury teams can be more truly compared.

DEFEATED ON FIFTH TRY

Rev. J. Wesley Miller of Bethel Lost to John S. Kimball

AFTER REPRESENTING TOWN FOUR TIMES

Results of Other Representative Contests in Vermont

Bethel, Nov. 8.—The weather favored the election yesterday and the total vote was large considering the somewhat small checklist, owing to dullness in the building granite industry. For representative the vote was Kimball, Republican, 249; Miller, Democrat, 114; scattering, 12. John S. Kimball, the representative-elect, is one of the town's best business men and will be a good representative. He is very popular, as his large vote indicates. The defeated candidate, Rev. J. Wesley Miller, has represented the town four terms in succession, perhaps a record for a Democrat in Vermont.

The representative-elect is 44 years of age, is married and has two sons. He is a son of George H. Kimball, commander of Daniel Lillie post, No. 61, G. A. R. The last Republican representative was F. L. Martin, a merchant, who was elected in 1906. Other ex-representatives living are E. A. Davis, Republican, elected representative in 1904, and senator in 1910; C. D. Cushing, Democrat, elected in 1902; Dr. R. M. Chase, Republican, elected in 1900; G. H. Tupper, Democrat, elected in 1898; A. Lee Cady, Republican, elected representative in 1896 and senator this year; W. B. C. Stickney, Republican, elected representative in 1884. The surprise of the day was the large vote in town for President Wilson, who received 143 votes for 225 for Hughes, 3 for Benson and 1 for Hanly. This is the largest vote ever given here to a Democratic candidate for president. The high man on the Republican ticket was Senator Carroll S. Page, who had 284 votes, next was A. Lee Cady, state senator, 280. Horace F. Graham for governor had 245, Prior H. Dale for congressman 243. The other Republican candidates for state senator, W. L. Kendall and L. E. Taylor, had 229 each; E. H. Edgerton, Republican and Democratic candidate for assistant judge, had 312, S. N. Gage 229. The high Democrat on the state ticket was Dr. W. B. Mayo for governor, 96; G. H. Pape for Congress had 93. The high man in the entire election was R. J. Flint, non-partisan candidate for justice of the peace, who had 382. The total vote for town representative was 375 and for U. S. senator 368. The ballot clerks were B. G. Bundy, R. E. Barnett, James M. Fowler and Don A. Wilson. Constable F. C. Putnam received the ballots after they were checked off by Town Clerk Guy Wilson.
